

LUHRING AUGUSTINE

531 WEST 24TH ST NEW YORK 10011

“William Daniels”

The New Yorker

Feb. 8, 2010

WILLIAM DANIELS

The young Brit shows terrific small oils on wood panels, of aluminum-foil crumples set on wavy aluminum-foil planes against crumpled aluminum-foil backgrounds. Creamy paint fills the innumerable facets with shattered reflections. The simple trick yields major pleasure, anchoring orgiastic indulgences of painting, for the hell of it, in a vernacular reality. There's one catch: an assembly-line-like sameness. Through Feb. 6. (Luhring Augustine, 531 W. 24th St. 212-206-9100.)